

RADIO, A TOOL FOR BROADCASTING IDEAS

Thérèse Casgrain, feminist activist and politician born in 1896, was one of the first Quebecers to host a public affairs program. She began her radio career in 1933 on CKAC, then worked at Radio-Canada starting in 1936. The program Fémina stayed on the air for thirty years and was also hosted by other renowned journalists, such as Judith Jasmin.

Thérèse Casgrain at a conference in Montreal

Hear Thérèse Casgrain comment on the 1940 Women's Voting Rights Act.

Audio rights: Fondation Lionel-Groulx